APSC/ASIA Scholarship 2025

Supported by JCS

✓ What is the APSC/ASIA Scholarship?

To strengthen human resources development and clinical/basic research, we will provide financial support to excellent human resources from APSC Memberships society or Asian societies who wishes to study and research cardiology in Japan.

The purpose of this scholarship is to advance the cardiovascular field, encourage bilateral research, and foster young researchers who are expected to play an active role all over the world. Studying in Japan will help you contribute to clinical cardiology in your own country as was to build a global professional network in the future.

✓ Why study in Japan?

You will be able to gain knowledge and experience in innovative cardiovascular science and the best patient care at world-class hospitals and research laboratories in one of the safest countries in the world. Japan is tackling various cardiovascular problems in the world's fastest aging society, and you could have front-line experience and an idea of how best to deal with aging-related health problems, which would be a pressing concern around the globe.

✓ Qualifications

- Those who have obtained a doctor's license, have undergone basic training in cardiology, and have acquired specialist knowledge in cardiology through practice.
- Applicants must be under 40 years old as of the application deadline.
- Those who wish to study abroad in Japan for 1 year or more, from 2025 or 2026.
- Those who have never been awarded this scholarship in the past.
- Those who have not received a similar grant from another institution.

✓ Tenure

From the beginning of the study and research in Japan until 3 months after you have returned home. This funding can be carried forward to the following fiscal year. However, if you stay in Japan for less than one year, you will be required to make a refund.

✓ The Scholarship Fee

- Around 20,000USD (3,000,000YEN); up to 4 people
